Preserving 'family relations'

AN ESSENTIAL FEATURE OF THE CHILD'S RIGHT TO IDENTITY IN THE AMERICAS

Child Identity Protection (CHIP) is pleased to invite you to the launch of its publication on children's identity rights in the Americas

This publication provides a regional complement to CHIP's 2022 flagship publication. It seeks to delve into the specifics of the region, analysing how historical, political, social and cultural contexts have influenced the creation, modification, falsification, preservation, and eventual restoration of children's identities.

This document also intends to provide a detailed overview of the practices, challenges and opportunities that exist in the Americas to ensure that all children can access their right to identity.
